WORLD NEWS

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 26.—Chinese officials today studied demands made by the Japanese government requesting the removal of anti-Japanese elements in North China. At the same time Japan announced that sham battles will commence along the Peiping-Tientsin Railway soon. An emergency session of the Peiping Military Council was called to consider the request and they showed some surprise at the Japanese action. The announcement of the sham battle maneuvers followed on the heels of Japanese demonstration of military strength of late.

ROME, October 26.—Premier Benito Mussolini today adopted the first defensive measures against the economic sanctions which the league has passed. These defense measures are not very severe but they require the Italians to give up the eating of meat twice weekly and to forego their customary siesta in mid-day, so that offices may close earlier and this conserve electricity and fuel. Other restrictions will be applied in the near future as well as retaliatory measures against those nations which have adopted sanctions against Italy.

WASHINGTON, October 28.—The possibility and the desirability of maintaining world peace were stressed by President Roosevelt yesterday when he formally announced the observance of Armistice Day, November 11. The President made no specific reference to the present Italo-Ethiopian situation.

CALL TO PEACE CONFERENCE

Issued by the Initiative Committee

The countries are now at war in Africa. Hundreds of Ethiopian soldiers, women and children are daily being wounded and killed by Italian bullets. Transported home disabled Italian soldiers and their families. The nations have conspired at Geneva. They have found Italy to be the aggressor. In accordance with the established principle that an aggressor must be punished, the League has determined to put words into action. Economic and financial sanctions against the Italian government are increasingly being applied. How far shall the sanctions be applied? Shall we support military measures against Italy? These are questions that now pose themselves before the world. All hours of peace must be clear in that position. Other nations cannot reveal themselves in the world panorama. Germany prepares for expansion. Japan has long had her eyes on China. War is a regular in Ethiopia. It may soon travel its vicious course to our continent. Only twenty-one years ago, an assassination in Sarajevo was the occasion for a world blast. A mere "incident" in Serbia had direct repercussions for five hundred thousand young Canadians and their families. Such an "incident" may occur again. Students play an important role in the life of a country. We must make certain that ours shall be a role motivated by strength and determination for peace. With this in mind, we, the undersigned, have met in an initiative conference. We participate in the different forms of campus activities, and represent all shades of religious and political thought, but we are closely bound and united in our strong desire for peace. We have determined to call a Quebec Student Peace Conference, to discuss the problems mentioned and others related to them. Free discussion and expression will be the keynote of this gathering. We call upon your organization, society, club, circle, fraternity, or society, to take its stand for peace. You are requested to send at least two members of your organization to the Peace Conference. You will be under no obligation, as a result of the Conference, for it is connected with no Peace Organization. Your representatives, together with the scores of others, will determine whether or not one will be formed, and if so, on what basis, programs, and constitution. Individuals are warmly invited to attend and take part in the discussions. (Signed) Students: Lois Wright, Charlotte R. Bowman, Jean J. Hunter, President of the Student Christian Movement; McGill; E. G. Baker, Former President of the Debating Union; G. H. Lathin, of the Student Christian Movement; Juanita C. Desbrier, John H. McDonald, President of Arts 36. Meriel Laxer, Member of the World Student Peace Committee; R. A. Hamilton, Chairman of the McGill League Against War; H. Van Dyke, of the Student Christian Movement; Melbourne A. Dolg, President of the Debating Union; Marjorie Smith, President of the Women's Union; Judy E. Moore, Vice-President of the Women's Union; James Anglin, Law Member of the Student's Council; John Nolan, Editor-in-Chief of the "McGill Daily"; Graham Gould, President of the Arts Undergraduate Society; Ronald Leatham, Editor of the "McGill Annual"; Neil Morrison, Secretary of the Student Christian Movement; Allen Anderson, Vice-President of the Political Economy Club; Bill Anderson, Arts Member of the Student's Council; Mary Gregory, President of R.V.C. 38. Staff: F. R. Egan, Secretary of the Faculty of Law; C. W. Hengel, Chairman of the Department of Philosophy; H. G. Fies, Prof. in the Department of English; C. L. Hawkins, Head of the Department of Genetics; A. V. Douglas, Lecturer in Anthropology, Dept. of Physics; Dr. G. W. Leatham, Prof. in the Department of English.

Dr. Bethune To Tell Of Trip To Russia

"A week-end in Russia" will be the subject of an address to be delivered by Dr. Bethune in Strathcona Hall at 8:30 tonight. Dr. Bethune was one of the group of Canadian doctors who visited the Soviet Union this summer to attend the International Physiological Congress in Leningrad. The doctor will speak generally of his impressions, and will deal with the congress of scientists including Sir Frederick Banting and Dr. W. Cannon who visited the Soviet.

Professor Files Next Speaker At Maccabean Circle

THE NEXT regular meeting of the Maccabean Circle will take place Sunday, Nov. 3rd, in the Grill Room of the Union, when Professor Fies will address the gathering. His topic, which has not as yet been announced, will deal with the subject with which he is associated in the University. The executive states that it hopes to announce at the meeting on Sunday, the major portion of its plans for the coming year. It has already announced that the first of the Friday evening Study Groups will take place Thursday evening, November seventh. A large program has been planned, and the announcement of the subjects to be discussed during the year will shortly be mailed to all students. The President also announced that some plans were under consideration at the moment, in the line of social activities.

Monster Peace Conference Planned By McGill Students For Next Week

Scheduled to Take Place in Union Following Saturday and Sunday Several Prominent Speakers To Address Audience — Discussion Groups Planned

AS AN outcome of an initiative meeting at which fourteen McGill students were present, the largest student peace conference ever held in Canada is planned to take place at the McGill Union on November 29th and 30th. Several prominent speakers will address the conference, and discussion groups wherein students will be afforded opportunity of expressing individual

Study Programs For First Term Issued By S. C. M.

Murray Brooks Discusses Plans For Following Year WITH the first Current Events Forum held last night at Strathcona Hall, the study group program of the S.C.M. is now well under way. Some half-dozen groups have already been formed, and registration for others is going on. The following statement concerning the study program was made last night by Murray Brooks, general secretary: "The experience of the Student Christian Movement in many countries throughout the world is that the greatest values are found not in large meetings or conventions, but in small groups of ten or a dozen persons under competent leadership, discussing some question of vital importance. It is in groups of this kind that the student learns to exercise his mind and to develop those intellectual processes which make the difference between a person of real intelligence and one who is merely a sponge absorbing other persons' ideas.

In addition to the regular groups on records of the life of Jesus, two groups are engaged in the study and discussion of two recent books, Stanley Jones' "Christ's Alternative to Communism" and "The Issues of Life" by Dr. H. H. Wieman. Another is being formed to discuss Dr. J. H. Osham's "Church, State and Community."

Two important student leaders are scheduled to be in the city this week. Mr. Brooks stated Miss Margaret Kinney, associate general secretary of the Canadian R.C.M., arrives today and will speak at several meetings for women in R.V.C. and in Strathcona Hall. A M.A. of the University of Alberta, Miss Kinney is a former member of the famous Edmonton Grads basketball team and was the leading woman athlete at Alberta University. In the summer of 1934 she was Canadian representative at various student conferences in Europe.

Rev. Clifford Grant, who has been in India for six years as a United Church missionary, is coming to McGill on Friday. Mr. Grant is missionary education secretary of the Movement and is visiting the universities of Canada in the interest of the Quadrennial Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at Indianapolis from December 28th to January 1st. Both Miss Kinney and Mr. Grant will speak at a fringe meeting in Strathcona Hall on Sunday at 8:45 the topic being "The Student and World Affairs."

A preliminary announcement is also made of the visit of Dr. T. Z. Koo to McGill from November 21st to 26th. Dr. Koo is world famous as a Chinese delegate to many international conferences and for his work with the World Student Christian Federation. Plans for his entertainment by both students and faculty members are now being made. McDonald, Mendel Laxer, R. A. Hamilton and Melbourne A. Dolg, was elected. This executive is at present working on plans for the McGill Student Peace Conference.

FEDERATED CHARITIES CAMPAIGN CONTINUES

Activities Begin For Philosophers

TONIGHT at 8:15, at Strathcona Hall, will mark the beginning of the Philosophical Society Activities for the season. "The Place of Philosophy in a University Education" is the topic chosen to be placed before the group for discussion. As in former years, the topics of discussion are to be chosen by the students themselves and to deviate from the ordinary formal lecture. Tonight the conference will be opened by several students chosen from the Department of Philosophy, after which the floor will be thrown open to the general meeting. The executive wishes to announce that all students are invited.

RETURNERS ANNOUNCED Amount Received Slightly Greater Than Last Year at Same Time

R.F. COLLECTED Staff Turns in Sum of $920 Up Till Last Night

EARLY returns to date in the drive for funds for the Federated Charities on the campus show an increase over the same time last year, the amount collected being $162.16 as against $157.05 last year. The largest sum collected this year has been in the Faculty of Engineering, with $43.86, with the Royal Victoria College next with $31.00. There are no returns as yet from Theology, Dentistry, and the Library School.

The amounts collected represent 8.1% of the objective of $2,000 set for McGill. A list of the sums collected follows:

Table with 3 columns: Category, Collected To Date, % Collected To Date. Includes Arts, Commerce, Medicine, Engineering, Dentistry, No returns, Graduate Nurses, Architecture, Graduate School, Law, R.V.C., and Totals.

Meeting Of Current Events Forum Held

George Haythorne Speaks on Present European Situation

A meeting of the Current Events Forum was held at Strathcona Hall on Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Meetings of this group will be held weekly at a convenient time for those interested. Speakers will attend every second meeting and discussions are to be a regular feature on the program. The speaker of the evening was Mr. George Haythorne who attended the Zimmerman School of National Relations in Geneva during the past summer. He treated briefly the social and political aspects of the countries which he had visited, namely England, France, Germany and Denmark. Mr. Haythorne then proceeded to give his opinions concerning the general European situation and international relations.

Preparations By German Players Now Under Way

PREPARATIONS for the production of three one-act plays to be presented by the German players on Tuesday and Friday of next week, in Moyle Hall, are now under way. The players are following a tradition set by their predecessors in producing these plays, remembering, as they do, the performance of "Die Deutschen Kleinstadter" presented last year. The cast of this year's performance will include many veterans, some of whom are playing this year in the first play, "Das Landhaus an der Heerstrasse" (The Country House on the Highway) which is by the author of last year's comedy, and in the third play, "Die Kleinen Verwandten" (The Country Relatives). The names of these players and those of the remaining members of the cast, together with a synopsis of these plays, will appear shortly in the Daily.

S. C. M. Sponsors Hallowe'en Dance

BROOM dance, Paul Jones, and other novelty numbers will feature the dancing arrangements for the Hallowe'en Hop to be held on Thursday evening in Strathcona Hall. The affair is being sponsored by the Student Christian Movement and will take the form of a masquerade. Tickets, which according to the committee, are selling rapidly, will be limited to seventy-five couples. The price per couple is fixed at $1.00. Prizes will be given for the most original costumes. Tickets may be obtained from the following sources: at the Union Truck Shop, Bill Gentleman's office, and the office at Strathcona Hall.

Professor Turner Gives Illustrated Lecture Before St. James Society

PHILIP J. TURNER, professor in the department of Architecture at McGill University, spoke on "The Spirit of London" at the fifth weekly meeting of the St. James Literary Society, last night. Professor Turner supplemented his talk with a series of slides, depicting the most famous of the English capital's sights. "The city of London," said the speaker, "is divided into a number of small 'islands.' Each 'island' is characteristic of a certain class of people and of a certain walk of life. Each exists in its own sphere and upholds its own ideals of life."

First Of Series Of Spanish Club Meeting Is Held

THE FIRST of a series of meetings of the Spanish Club was held last night at 8:15 in the Grill Room of the Union, under the presidency of Fred Denton. The honorary president, Professor Sugars, outlined the reasons for the existence of the Club. Professor Sugars pointed out the fact that the Spanish Club is a place where the students are enabled to receive a better knowledge of Spain its literature and its art. It also permits the members to exchange views with those persons of Spanish origin, whose outlook on life is quite dissimilar from that of those who are of a different race, stated the professor. Finally, he stressed the importance of the co-operation of all, requested the new members also to take a keen interest in the activities of the Club, and concluded with an additional welcome to all present.

Holland Speaks At L.V.C.F. Luncheon

THE weekly luncheon of the L.V.C.F. was held yesterday at noon in the Union Grill Room. The guest speaker was Mr. G. A. Holland of the Scripture Testimony League, a worker in evangelistic circles. Mr. Holland's subject was "Christian Conflict and Conquest." The speaker, using the verse "Fight the good fight, lay hold on eternal life," showed how Paul designated conflict in the first part of the verse and conquest in the second portion. "We, as Christians, have a battle to fight, a battle which takes more courage and valor than any physical one," he went on to show that there is no defeat for the Christian who puts his trust in Christ, for Paul said, "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me."

McGill Glee Club Songs Rehearsed

Several new songs, including a German favorite of previous seasons, were rehearsed at the weekly meeting of the McGill Glee Club, held in the Union Ballroom last night. In the absence of the director, Mr. Norris, the meeting was conducted by Rae Guess. The executive has decided to form a double quartet as a nucleus for the choral group. Although a definite date has not yet been set for the concert at Westhill High School, it is planned to hold a dance in the near future.

Pidgeon Addresses Historical Club On Life Of Reformer

ROBERT OWEN, his life and times, formed the theme of a paper presented to the Historical Club last night by A. L. Pidgeon, Arts 37, at the home of Professor Adair, who is the Honorary President of that organization. Pidgeon is at present honoring in history. The speaker began his address to the society with an outline of the social and economic background of England and the continent at the time of Owen's life. England at that time was in the process of undergoing the Industrial Revolution, which was to change the entire economic condition of the state. The social distress that resulted, in turn resulted in considerable speculation. Owen was a product of this ferment and turmoil, according to Pidgeon.

'Old McGill' 1936

THE editors of 'Old McGill' 1936 are now busy working on plans to make this edition of the year book a true record of the year's activities. With this aim in mind a group of photographers has been delegated to obtain a pictorial record of activities on the Campus, and indications so far show that the efforts taken in this direction are giving extremely satisfactory results.

But this is only one phase of the whole work. There still remains that part which is dependent solely on the graduating students. Biography forms are now obtainable from members of the annual board, from the various building superintendents and at the tank-shed in the McGill Union. These forms should be filled out at the earliest possible moment and returned to the Annual Executive so that no delays of any sort will hinder the editors in their attempt to make a real success of the 1936 edition.

Procrastination on the part of individual students has been the aggravating experience of every past Editor-in-Chief of 'Old McGill'. This year however an early effort is being made to enlist the interest and support of every graduating student and hope is entertained that the classes of '36 will be different in this respect from those of '35.

What Price Specialization?

IN the past month or so, students in the professional schools at college have had a growing sense of the personal responsibilities they undertake in devoting practically their entire academic time to the routine of learning more and more about a small section of all knowledge. Their concern has been crystallized by two speeches, and particularly by two of their speakers. The first speaker we refer to is Principal Morgan; his speech, the installation address. The second speaker we refer to is Dr. Wilder Penfield; his speech, an address before the Medical Undergraduate Society last night.

The facts to be gleaned from these addresses were perfectly clear and of particular pertinence to all coming professional men. In the past a great number of us have been guilty of losing our sense of perspective in that we have been grubbing at a single branch of a small subject, digging up facts that are of undoubted value in themselves, but nevertheless of small value from the perspective existence as a whole.

The specialist who does not take the time to acquaint himself with what is going on in fields other than his own is nothing but a stunted abnormality whose business anywhere out of his field is woefully apparent. The language is strong; but the subject demands strong description. Men who think in nothing but dynes or anterior horn cells, or Article 92 or para-amino-benzoic acids or bacterial plaques are losing daily, tremendously. It can best be expressed, we think, by saying that they have not got the perspective that a professional man must have. Their existence outside of the laboratory, hospital or office is practically nil. They are out of focus. They do not see the whole field, but a narrow section. Their very thought being in that narrow field, they soon find that thinking outside of that field is awkward. The picture is one of progressive lessening in perspective. The evils that result ultimately are known to all of us. Meeting these specialists anywhere but in their office becomes intolerable.

Remedies? Easy. Devote a certain amount of time to general subjects. Intellectual culture is available all around us. And this is particularly true in a university. Activities to interest everyone are being carried on. Participation in these is a splendid way of getting out of that deep trench of specialization. The specialist is necessary. He is indispensable, but not at the cost of losing his personality.

The Gist of the "Jester"

THE editors of the Jester, a Columbia University humor monthly which is published by the students and tries to imitate the "New Yorker," finally hit on a means of increasing circulation. It's an old gag, but works every time. They published an article in the current issue which raised the ire of the officials, who banned the issue. The ban was lifted within twenty minutes, and the sales volume leaped skyward.

It wasn't a milk and watery beer article, or a stinky cuss word in a Montreal edition, that did the trick. It was an article summarizing the results of a Purity Questionnaire, compiled by the co-eds of Barnard College (the R.V.C. of Columbia), which attempted to show just how virtuous the weaker sex in the university really was. The results were rather illuminating, as was the article. Hence the ban, and the increased circulation.

75% Technically Pure

THE questions put by this rather original quiz are quite pointed. There were such posers as: 1) How many men have you kissed? 2) Do you indulge in the Soul Kiss? How often? 3) Do you go out with other women's husbands? 4) Do you neck? (a neck up, b) neck down? c) Have you ever been propositioned? 16 Now often? 7) Have you ever been out on an all night date? and so forth, to even more intimate questions which I haven't include here, because even if the feature editor didn't delete it, the authorities would probably clamp down on the Daily, and a glorious repetition of 1933 might ensue, with the matter 50 miles away. The last question on the list, by far the most challenging one reads: "Have you ever had an appendicitis operation?"

The percentage of sinners in the various categories naturally vary in direct proportion with the degree of the misdemeanor. The authors of the article in the "Jester" do not tell us how many co-eds answered the questionnaire, but only give percentages. Seventy-five percent of those who answered it reported that, technically, their honor was unimpaired. Which is a tough break for Freshmen.

Let it be understood that I am NOT suggesting a similar survey for the Daily. Mine is just an objective report, with absolutely no malice aforethought. Besides the "Jester" was only banned for twenty minutes. Better our rugged native virtue than an increase in circulation.

Free Opera Flops

JUDGING from the arid comments and voluble complaints of his neighbors, Lawrence Tibbett's voice may be OK from the stage of the Met, or in a movie house, when you pay to hear him, but it isn't so hot to have that pleasure twenty-four hours a day. Tibbett occupies a suite on the fourteenth floor of an apartment on East End avenue, and even though the walls and floors have been sound-proofed, his robust voice carries unto the ends of the earth.

From noon till midnight, so some of the occupants of that apartment complain, they can hear the immortal "Edel Papstchen" or aria from the "Emperor Jones." They get tired of it after the sixth time, because, although most of the people on East End avenue love the classics, they like to have to pay to hear them, without having their sleep destroyed.

It's a very distressing state of affairs, when we contemplate the injustice of it all. There are many people who would give a good deal to be able to hear Tibbett, and cannot, and here we have those who actually do by catching complaining. However, I can understand that viewpoint, because I happen to live in the vicinity of a singing teacher whose pupils are not nearly as good as our Lawrence, though they're just as vociferous.

Bravo!

WITH the introduction of the new feature on Page One, "World News" the Daily has made what I really consider a tremendous step in the right direction. If the news continues to be summarized as effectively as the initial effort would indicate, the front page will be able to back anybody who places it in the category of a second rate voice heard. This feature offers an admirable opportunity for whoever runs it, to show real discrimination and taste, in selecting what is really significant and interesting, while omitting much of the blunderdash that is wont to creep into print because of readiness public relations counsels. (I wish that last sentence plucking a whole lumber plant out of my own eye.)

The only objection to this innovation is that it makes college all the easier, for now you don't even have to read the daily press to be well informed. You can get it all from the first column on Page One, during lectures. And what more could you ask?

He Didn't Exponnd

MUCH over this one, 9999 readers: Not so long ago, Columbia opened a new library building. It is customary, it seems on such an occasion, for all the big wigs to gather together, while the head Librarian opens the Bible at any page, picks a passage at random and speaks on it, before declaring the library officially opened.

A friend of mine who witnessed the thing tells me that all Columbia's big wigs (and New York's too) had gathered for the ceremony, waiting for the Librarian to do his stuff. He stood there proudly, before the beautifully moulded door, and held a huge Bible in his hands. Then he shut his eyes, opened the Bible casually, and brought down the point of his pencil on the open page. He then glanced at the passage he was to read, and blenched. But he had to go through with it, and read: "And the Children of Israel were here gathered together."

Limping Olympics

THERE'S a good deal of controversy going on in American sporting circles as to whether or not the U.S.A. should participate in the coming Olympic Games at Berlin. In view of the Nazi discrimination against Jews, Catholics, and Liberals. The opposition to sending a team to Berlin is very strong although General Sherrill, who is the American representative on the Olympic Committee stated the other day that German policies had nothing to do with the Olympics, and why worry about persecution?

Of course the Nazis are trying to be as nice as they can, now, in matters directly connected with the Olympiad, but from what we know of Fascist brutality in general, and the Nazi brand in particular, it isn't hard to see how Berlin is no more a home for the next Olympiad than Hitler is a candidate for the position of Chief Rabbi of Palestine.

Only a short while ago, in an international soccer game between a Polish and German team a Jewish member of the Polish team was beaten to death by an enraged Nazi mob, because he scored the winning goal. Of course that wouldn't happen at Berlin on account of the tourist trade, but a strong body of public opinion feels, that since the idea behind the Olympic Games is international goodwill and sportsmanship, Berlin would make a rather unattractive setting for such a gathering of nations for that most democratic of all pastimes—sport.

Schultz Is Dead!

DUTCH SCHULTZ, the beer baron and labor union racketeer is no more. He was bumped off in Newark, while a couple of his loyal henchmen were simultaneously riddled with bullets in the vicinity of Times Square. That makes about the sixth gang slaying in the metropolis area within the last two weeks. Brooklyn in particular has seen some pretty brutal killings lately, with District Attorney Geoghan slumbering blithely, because he doesn't like the noise of gunshot.

Evidently a gangster's life is not a happy one. It is well to stick to more legal and tranquil occupations, such as tight-rope walking, gunpowder manufacturing, or washing windows in skyscrapers. How sad it is to think, however, that Dutch Schultz will now be unable to pay his income tax!

Alice At College

"Do you think I'm still a child?" cried Alice to Professor Cantab, in a rage. "Why all this silly discipline about attendance and so on? I'm old enough to know what is good for me without being forced to do it."

"One would like to think so," said the professor, "but one is given little cause for such a conclusion."

"Now be reasonable," pleaded Alice. "You know, with your intelligence, that this compulsory attendance is unnecessary and degrading."

"One is not to be persuaded by flattery," said the professor severely. "One has one's duty to perform."

"But can't you see . . ." begged Alice.

"One can see that discipline in this University is not what it should be," replied the professor. "One finds it hard to believe that you were once the nice little girl in Wonderland. One perceives a great change."

"I've grown up since 'then," said Alice, "and now I'm in College, but I'm still the same person."

"One would like to be certain," said the professor. "Stand up and repeat 'The Walrus and the Carpenter.'"

"How those professors order one about and make one repeat lessons," thought Alice. "I might as well be at school again." However she got up and began to repeat it, but her head was so full of her College life, that she hardly knew what she was saying, and the words came very queer indeed:

The Walrus and the Carpenter
Were walking through McGill;
They wept like anything to see
It standing on a hill,
'Such shameless self-advertisement'
They said, 'makes me feel ill!'

If seven Deans wrote seven books
To prove it isn't there,
Do you suppose, the Walrus said,
That it would be elsewhere?
I only trust the other groaned,
In fasting, faith and prayer.

Oh, students, have a talk with us,
The Walrus did implore,
Professors' tongues are thick with dust,
And lectures are a bore
Whomsoever influence
Promotes the gentle snore!

But every student looked at him,
And shook his youthful head,
Meyring to say, he did not choose
Hardly to leave his bed,
It must be student apathy,
Was all the Walrus said.

"That is not said right," said the Professor.

"Not quite right, I'm afraid," said Alice timidly.

"It is wrong from beginning to end," said the Professor decidedly.

"Oh dear!" said Alice, "I find life here so confounding that I really don't know what I'm doing."

"Confounding eh?" berked the professor. "Have you joined the S.C.M., the L.N.U., the M.R.T., the H.B.P.E. the . . ."

"Yes," said Alice breathlessly.

"The professor went on without paying any attention to her.

"The Delta Sigma, the Players' Club, the Operatic and Choral Society, La Societe Francaise, the Chess Club, the Stamp Club, the Historical Club, the Radio Association, the . . ."

"Oh, yes," said Alice wearily. "I've joined them all, and a dozen more you didn't mention. But they don't help to make life simpler."

"That's queer," said the professor; "these societies exist to help you find an adequate basis for life, and to discover the meaning of life at its best."

Alice, "and so many interpreters. Who can give me guidance?"

"Look here," said the professor, "you sound like a lost soul in search of Grace. One wishes you wouldn't; it makes one uncomfortable."

The professor did not look very comfortable, looking at ease in his chair with his afternoon tea and biscuits before him.

"You professors have an easy time of it," said Alice emphatically. "with practically nothing to do all day except deliver a few lectures on a subject about which you have become expert. No wonder you are all so prone to mental inertia!"

"The professor was not expecting this counter attack. He sat up suddenly and struggled for speech.

"Have you ever considered our point of view?" he asked. "But of course you haven't for else you would not make these remarks. Have you heard the 'Professor's Lament'?"

"I never hear them do anything else," said Alice.

Professor Cantab paid no attention to her, but folded his hands and said in his best accent:

Rows of weary faces watching
As one scribbles on the board,
Pouring out one's expert knowledge
Nestly labelled, nicely stored.
But no gleam of interest flickers
And one sprouts to idle air,
They like notes like brainless robots,
Like wax images they stare.
And one knows that they are thinking
'Silly duffer! Yapping pup!
Doesn't know a thing about it!
How I wish he would shut up!'

Suddenly they've started listening,
Knowledge holds them in its spell!
They are eager, they are anxious,
They are waiting—for the bell!

"That's all very well," said Alice, "but a little more vim in your lectures would make all the difference. If newspapers do not scorn the 'human appeal' element, why should a College Professor?"

"It is not befitting a professor to pander to the Gallery!" said Professor Cantab in frigid tones.

"In other words," said Alice, "it is beneath their dignity to please their student audience."

"You put it too crudely," the professor protested.

Alice laughed at him and said:
When you were a student,
You liked a good joke,
And could make one
As well as the best,
On accepting your chair
Half your intellect froze
And your lectures
Disposed of the rest.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:

May I, through the medium of your columns, reply to recent correspondence in the McGill Daily concerning the Arts Undergraduate Magazine. A very competent Editorial Board has been proposed by last year's Magazine Executive and will be submitted to the Annual Meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society on November 5th.

All previous publications of the magazine have been made in the months of March, and it is expected that it will appear about the same time this year.

Yours truly,
GRAHAM GOULD, Exec.
Arts Undergraduate Society.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Sir:

McGill's football team, according to the latest scheme evolved by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, is now eliminated from the running in the Intercollegiate League. According to this pathetic Utopian system, if the team finishing in first place has already defeated the team finishing in second place twice, the first place team is automatically awarded the title. Thus, assuming that Varsity finishes in first place, and McGill in second, Varsity will be spared the tedious business of having to demonstrate her superiority for a third time.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:

May I, through the medium of your columns, reply to recent correspondence in the McGill Daily concerning the Arts Undergraduate Magazine. A very competent Editorial Board has been proposed by last year's Magazine Executive and will be submitted to the Annual Meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society on November 5th.

All previous publications of the magazine have been made in the months of March, and it is expected that it will appear about the same time this year.

Yours truly,
GRAHAM GOULD, Exec.
Arts Undergraduate Society.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Sir:

McGill's football team, according to the latest scheme evolved by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, is now eliminated from the running in the Intercollegiate League. According to this pathetic Utopian system, if the team finishing in first place has already defeated the team finishing in second place twice, the first place team is automatically awarded the title. Thus, assuming that Varsity finishes in first place, and McGill in second, Varsity will be spared the tedious business of having to demonstrate her superiority for a third time.

INTERCOLLEGIATE STANDING

Varsity	4
Queen's	3

Well, now, Mr. Editor, each team has still two games to play. Anything may happen. Suppose McGill wins both hers, and Varsity loses both hers. McGill then has 4 points, Varsity 1. But Varsity, according to the C.I.A.U. ruling, has already proved herself a better team than McGill. If a third game were played Varsity would win it. Will the fact that she has finished second and not first oblige her to demonstrate that conclusion again?

You may say, Mr. Editor, that this situation is not likely to arise, quite possibly not. But here is one that is quite conceivable. McGill has already defeated Queen's once. Suppose she does so again, but loses to Western. That gives McGill 6 points. Queen's has already tied Varsity once. Suppose she does so again. Queen's then has 6 points, and is tied with McGill for second place. What happens? McGill, according to the C.I.A.U. theory, should be spared the tedium of having to defeat Queen's a third time. So Queen's is eliminated. Varsity is spared the desperate emul of having to push over McGill again. So McGill is eliminated, and Varsity gets the title, without a playoff. But Varsity, in such a case, has yet to prove herself a better team than Queen's.

Well, maybe we worked it out wrong. Maybe McGill should have been counted out first, leaving Queen's and Varsity to play off. But suppose they did, and that Queen's won. Should Queen's be awarded the championship? How about McGill, who, according to the C.I.A.U., should not even need to play Queen's again to prove her superiority.

It seems rather a mess.

But there is worse to come. Mr. Editor, McGill, to have any chance of winning the championship, will have to play for a draw instead of a win in at least one of her remaining games. I'll prove that. Varsity (let us say) is certain to win one of her remaining games and thus finish in first place. Now if McGill finishes in undisputed possession of second place, Varsity gets the title without further ado. But if McGill finishes tied with Queen's, nobody, least of all the C.I.A.U., will know which way to award the title. McGill has to play for that tie. And to be able to do that, she must win both of her last two games. Figure it out for yourself.

Now it is a good deal more perplexing for a team to be obliged to play for a draw instead of an out-and-out win, so that our men will have an even more difficult task on their hands than if they went out to win both their games. It hardly seems fair to subject them to this confusing situation, whose only saving grace is that it offers new possibilities for unexpected climaxes to our sorely-tried inventors of football fiction—such as the following: "How our gallant hero, with only 3 1/2 seconds to play, scored a touchdown against his own team, thus saving it from defeat."

Mr. Editor, the C.I.A.U. has got itself into a hole. It can crawl out of it in two ways: by repealing its newest masterpiece of mixed-up legislation, or by cutting out the whole playoff system. Sports fans will agree that this system has already proved itself, in hockey and baseball, to be merely a rather unsuitable way of making sucker money. It has no place in college football.

Yours reformatively,
SPECTATOR.

Red Rugger Freshman Football Team Team Meets Play At Stadium Today Bank Fifteen

Play at Stadium Tonight at 8.30

TEAM PLAYS VARSITY SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Game Tonight Very Important—Everybody Expected To Turn Out

PLAYING their final exhibition game of the season, before the crucial fixture with Varsity at Toronto Saturday, the Red team look horns with the strong Bank of Montreal outfit tonight. The game is to be played at the Stadium and will start at 8.30 p.m. sharp. A win for the McGill team next Saturday will give them the championship, as they defeated Queen's here recently by the score of 7-6, and there are only two games scheduled, one with each team.

The Bankers team is at present leading the Quebec Rugby Football Union and will provide the Redmen with the sternest opposition they have experienced to date. Last Thursday afternoon the Red team made a favourable impression when they only lost to the powerful M.A.A.A. fifteen by a 3-0 score. This lone three points was the result of a penalty kick.

Varsity Have Strong Team

The Redmen have improved greatly since the beginning of the season. They have been considerably strengthened by the addition of several Old Country and Maritime players, and are confident of taking the Blue-boys into camp. Varsity boasts several members who played on the Ontario Inter-provincial team, and are all set to defend their title which they won last year.

Encouraged by their win over the reputedly strong Tricolour outfit, the Red and White have been practising regularly and have now a systemized and powerful attack. To date no injuries have handicapped the team, and it is hoped that after their last practice Thursday pm. this will still be the case. Coach Ford and his aids are busily engaged in picking the Saturday's team, and thus it is very important that every player who has been turning out for practices will be at the Stadium. Substitutes will be used in the game tonight so that all may be given a chance to show their worth and make a bid for a trip to the Quebec City.

Following to Turn Out Tonight

The following players are requested to be at the Stadium tonight: Simpson, Budden, Clemon, Anderson, Romano, Williams, Smith, Rogers, McKenzie, Widdeman, Richer, Argo, Thomson, Wakefield, Duffin, Coleman, Focht, Partridge, Scott, Orlivie, Hamilton, Savage, Gilden, and Rabnet. The team will entrain for Toronto Friday at 3.00 p.m. The game will start Saturday at 1.30 p.m. sharp.

Soccer Squad Loses To Carsteel Eleven In Exhibition Game

Drops Close Match 2-0—Play at Toronto Saturday

THE powerful Carsteel soccer team last night eked out a 2-0 win over the McGill squad. Under strict orders from Coach Hay Findlay to take no chances, McGill concentrated on her passing plays, and really made no concerted effort to score.

Captain Johnny Nolan in the absence of George Owen, played on the half line, and as a result the usual scoring punch was lacking. The game served as a fine workout for the all important game with Varsity this Saturday.

Carsteel fielded a fine team, including in their number one of the finest players in the country, Chedgoy, a former internationalist with England. Carsteel attacked from the front and Janikun and Laing at fullback had ample opportunity to practice clearing and feeding the ball to the forward. Pengelly in goals made several fine saves, and Nolan, Minnion and Horsnall had their hands full on the half line. Five minutes before the end of the first half Carsteel scored their goal on a scorching drive from directly in front of the posts.

Play Speeded Up

The second half was more or less a repetition of the first, play speeding up and down the field. In spite of Coach Findlay's warning to take things easy McGill could not resist piling in at times, and on one occasion Chedgoy was knocked flying, and play was held up for several minutes until he recovered.

Play speeded up after this incident and about ten minutes before the end of the game Carsteel scored their second goal of the game on a fine pass from the wing. The team came through the game in good shape and with the return of Owen will be at full strength for the defence of their Intercollegiate title in Toronto on Nov. 2.

Team Meets Loyola in Important Tilt — Teams Are Tied For Second Place — McConnell, Hamilton, Among Those Expected to Star — Game Starts at 2.30 p.m.

DETERMINED to keep in the running for the Intermediate College rugby championship the Freshmen stack up against the strong Loyola outfit at the Stadium this afternoon. At the present time the West End outfit are sharing second place with the Redmen, each team having two points. The Bishop's College team are in first place with four points, having defeated Loyola twice. The Proshi defeated the Bishops entry at Lennoxville but lost at the West End Stadium to Loyola 7-6.

Gymnastic Team To Start Practising Monday Afternoon

A Good Team is Expected to Turn Out

EXPECTING to break the three year winning streak of Varsity this year, the McGill Gymnasts will start out practicing next Monday. Despite the loss of Bob McCarthy, former captain Edgar Holland and Tom Harvey, Coach Hay Findlay hopes to have a strong outfit. Six of last year's squad, Walker, Hodgson, Reall, Robbs, Weldon and Oliver will be on hand, carrying the Red colours.

In addition to building for the Caron cup, emblematic of the Intercollegiate title, there is also the Provincial and Wicksteed Meets for the members to take part in. As many teams will be entered in these meets as there are men to complete them, consequently all newcomers are urged to turn out at the Montreal High Gym on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5.00 p.m. They will be given all the assistance required by Coach Hay Findlay and his assistants who it is hoped will include Ray Caron, George Dumbell, Reg Wallace, all graduate McGill gymnasts.

Many Star Newcomers

Among the new men expected to turn out will be Jack Caron, brother of the famous Ray Caron who led McGill Gym teams to victory so often. Robert Harvey, a member of the Harvey family, famous at this university for their gymnastic ability and Grant Danery who distinguished himself as a gymnast at St. Andrews will be other welcomed additions to the squad. Norlinger, who placed high in last year's Intercollegiate meet is another who is expected to go places on the team. It is hoped that R. V. Chadwick and John Fenwick will be on hand again this season. Bob Walker is the captain of this year's team.

Harrier Trials Are Being Held This Friday Afternoon

Intercollegiate Meet Next Week at Toronto

HARRIERs are training hard for the college trials which will be held this Friday at 4.30 in preparation for the Intercollegiate Harrier meet in Toronto next week. A fine man team will be selected to represent the Red and White against Toronto and Queen's. Two of last year's team are back again this fall — Terry Todd, who placed fourth last year, and Ben Scheeler a promising harrier. Clarry Franklin, last year's non-competing captain, is also out.

Several of this year's senior and intermediate track men have been out, including Bill Amason, Frank Noble and Johnny Pearson, while Maurice Luff, who was with the Queen's harrier team last year, will be a threat to those who are trying to make the team. Dick Richardson, who won several cross-country championships when competing for Bishop's College, is a welcome addition to the McGill squad. Team Also to Compete for Dunlop Trophy.

However, there are several vacancies on the harrier squad, and more men are asked to turn out. McGill will compete in the city championships for the Dunlop Trophy, which takes place after the Intercollegiate meet. Coach Van Wagner hopes to enter two teams in this meet, and if this is to be possible he must have more men competing.

Senior Hockey Team Continue Practices At Forum This Week

Team Plays First Game This Saturday Against Verdun

SETTING up a fast pace on the Forum ice for such an early date the Red hockey team went through another brisk workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for the opening game with Verdun Saturday night. The team will go through another hard practice today, letting up on Thursday and Friday. The turnout of seventeen men has not yet been whittled down to fourteen men.

Although few have yet found their hockey legs very well the competition for places will be very keen as all those out are of first class calibre. Paul Pidecock, last year's Junior star, has been one of the most prominent to date and seems pretty well assured of a position. Russ McConnell, Haines and Hall are the other newcomers who have played well to date. All of last year's team seem likely to keep their places.

Bushwhackers May Play at Forum

At the present time the Bushwhackers, otherwise known as the Intermediate team who for the past few years have played at the Arena are without a league to play in. If the new league to be known as the Montreal Intermediate Hockey Group can operate this season at the Forum on Saturday afternoon, the Bushwhackers will start practicing probably next week and it looks as though there will be plenty of material for both teams. The Junior Amateur Hockey Association schedule for this season will be found below.

Prospective Managers To Meet Today

Freshmen Urged to Attend Meeting at Union Music Room

MANAGERIAL SYSTEM REQUIRES ASSISTANTS

Meeting Starts at 5.00 — System Started Last Year

THE ATTENTION of all Freshmen is called to an important meeting to be held in the Music Room of the Union this afternoon at 5.00 p.m. The meeting concerns the managerial system of McGill, and it is an important athletic organization on the campus. The system was inaugurated last year, and is at present being carried on by the managerial board composed of John MacDonald, Lorne Gales, and George Murray.

The system offers a splendid chance to all Freshmen interested in the management of the different athletic teams. Those serving their first year are enrolled as completers. These men act as apprentices to the managers of the various teams. In their second year of service, they become assistant managers of one of the college teams. In the third year, they become a team manager, and in the final year, if their success has warranted it, they become a member of the managerial board. All Freshmen are cordially invited to attend the meeting today. The success of this system depends on the Freshmen, and all those who do their share will gain promotion.

WHY You Do For Unknown Thousands What Dr. Dafee Is Doing For The Quints?

The fortunate five are getting the best of medical care and rightly so. But think of the thousands who did not have the good fortune to be born five at a time and so gain the public eye and heart. Thousands of them — born to blush unseen and uncared for. They deserve intelligent and loving care too.

You can provide it if you will. The recipients of your generosity will never be a daily feature in your newspaper, but your money will give them the same fine start towards health, as Dr. Dafee is so ably giving the famous quints.

The child welfare services of Federated Charities are among the most important of the many social services carried on in our city.

Through these services, babies of unfortunate families, orphans and others, receive care that would otherwise be lacking.

Federated Charities is made up of a group of agencies, combining in one appeal to make it easier for you to give. Every dollar meets a pressing human need. Every dollar pays big returns in human happiness. When your money does good—it's good to give.

Osler Society Hears Papers On Findings Of Early Scientists

Howard and Trimmingham Give Talks on Leeuwenhoek and Hippocrates

MADE MICROSCOPE Hippocratic Oath Model of Medical Ethics Even Today

Papers dealing with the lives and works of Hippocrates and Leeuwenhoek were presented at the first meeting of the Osler Society, held last evening in the Osler Library in the Medical Building. R. L. Trimmingham and R. P. Howard were the speakers. The title of Trimmingham's paper was "Leeuwenhoek and the Microscope".

Observes Passages of Blood This was followed by visits from many notables and even royalty. Leeuwenhoek was an extremely inquisitive man and turned his microscope on a thousand different things. He observed the passage of blood from arteries to veins in the tail of a tadpole. His discovery of the human spermatazoa marked a very important milestone in the history of embryology. In August, 1723, Leeuwenhoek summoned his friend Dr. Hoogwilt to his bedside and dictated his last letters to the Royal Society. Thus ended a career which marked the discovery and beginning of a new world of science.

Hippocratic Oath One of Hippocrates' greatest contributions to medicine was the dissection of medicine from superstition and priest-craft, and the placing of it on a scientific basis. Of his non-professional books, the "Aphorisms" and the "Oath" are most interesting. The "Aphorisms" is a group of catch-phrases which were very popular in the middle ages. The "Oath" whether written by Hippocrates or not, gives an interesting picture of medical etiquette at his time. His book, "Prognostic" is based on his experience in the temple and he gives three reasons for prognosis: (1) to inspire confidence in the patient; (2) to provide better treatment; and (3) to excuse the physician from blame if the patient dies.

Faculty guests and alumnae present included Dr. H. E. MacDermott, honorary president; Dr. W. Francis, faculty advisor; Dr. E. G. Reid and Dr. Dansey of the Verdun Protestant Hospital; and Dr. John Nichols of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

S.C.M. NOTES STUDY GROUPS Small groups offer students the best opportunity they may have in the university to gain a real understanding of important problems; to wrestle with disturbing questions and equip themselves adequately to meet life's struggles and to take an active, intelligent part in society.

Bishop Of Montreal Speaks At Chapel

"God works in man, through man, for man," declared the Reverend John Parthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal, speaking at the regular Sunday service held under the auspices of the S.C.M. in the Divinity Chapel, University Street.

Taking 2nd Kings: VI:17 as his text, the Bishop stated that God as a worker was always active. Throughout the ages astronomical devices have revealed his great forces, besides such accepted things today as electricity, and the radio. At the time of Creation man was to have dominion over the earth. At the present time man has, through science and wonderful discoveries, turned the earth's forces into his servants.

God comes to dwell in us to give us power. We are workers together to carry out his great purposes. The rulers of the world are members of the church of God. In some instances the Church has been overthrown because of the attitude of the ruler. In Russia the Czarist regime carried on a cruel and corrupt subjection of the peasants. The Church in Russia condoned these practices in order to have the continued support of the state. But, when the Czars were deposed so also was the church overthrown. Similar was the situation in Germany under the Kaiser's military rule. Similarly is the State control overthrown, and with it, the new class scorned the church.

Class government must always fall in the end, declared Bishop Parthing. Christ is concerned not only with the spiritual life but with the whole life as well. Referring to the Italo-Ethiopian war he deplored the slaughter of an almost defenceless people. But in opposition to this cruelty was the united effort of fifty-two nations determined to end war as peacefully as possible. In the end right triumphs over wrong, just as slavery was abolished in the U.S.A. in the last century, and child labour in mines prohibited by the strenuous efforts of Lord Shaftesbury and his friends in England.

Egypt will soon be made to the British government by Premier Teufik Nassim Pasha. This move is believed linked up in some way with the Italo-Ethiopian situation. The Premier has asked the counsel of King Fuad in presenting his request. The contents of the note are being kept secret.

BOSTON, October 29.—Fire which broke out in the shelter deck of the Exarch, bound for Mediterranean ports, was said to be under control and local agents said that the ship would probably proceed on her course. The Exarch's position was given as 750 miles from New York, from where she sailed last Friday. Absence of calls for assistance supported the belief that her crew of 36 and her nine passengers were in no danger.

OTTAWA, October 29.—The effective application of economic sanctions against Italy proposed by the League of Nations, will be adopted by the Canadian government, Premier Mackenzie King announced late last night. However, the Canadian government does not feel bound to apply any military sanctions. The economic sanctions to be adopted will mean prohibition of the export of arms, munitions of war and the implements of war, from the Dominion to Italy, the prevention of the issue of Canadian loans or financial backing to Italy and the restriction of imports from Italy. The arms and credits embargoes will become effective at once.

ROME, Oct. 29.—The bombing by airplane of some 100,000 Ethiopians, who were gathered at Maglo for a surprise attack, was effected by the Italian army last night. The bombs were inflammatories. The Ethiopian troops were gathered in an attempt to attack the Italians in Somaliland, despatches stated. On the northern front the Italian troops followed up the advantages gained yesterday in the bombardment of Sasa Baneh and Dagabur.

LONDON, October 29.—Failure to effect a plan for the settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war was recorded here in official circles when the efforts of Anglo-French experts fell through. Following this disclosure, it was announced that Captain Anthony Eden, Great Britain's Minister for League of Nations Affairs, will leave shortly for Geneva to push forward the legislation for the application of economic sanctions against Italy. Sir Samuel Hoare will follow him shortly.

Pidgeon Addresses Historical Club On Life Of Reformer

(Continued from Page 1) sition of the church because of his belief that religion had only created greater obscurity and fogginess in understanding the social and economic conditions of the world. He also had to contend with the suspicion of the workers themselves, and with the general ignorance of the times. Owen had many influential men on his side, but later when he reached into social reform he lost a great many of them. In 1824 Owen went to America, where he again attempted to establish an ideal social community and failed, losing a great deal of money in the venture. Meanwhile the speaker stated, the workers in England had united and adopted many of Owen's views, much to the surprise of Owen himself, who had always appealed to the wealthy classes for reform. Owen was a believer in the control of machinery through the agency of benevolent despotic rulers.

A Pacific Coast salesman introduces his homing pigeons into the sales force of his milling company. Now nearly 500 feathered messengers travel on the running boards of salesman's cars to distant towns and isolated mountain stores without regular mail or wire service. Rush orders, written on thin oiled paper, are fastened to the pigeons' legs. Released, the birds fly homeward at 35 to 40 miles an hour. Although capable of flights as long as 2,000 miles, they are not required to travel more than 400. Moderate rain, sleet or snow do not stop them, since homing pigeons have three sets of eyelids, two of them practically transparent, so that they can see with their eyes shielded. — Rutherford Platt, "The Book of Opportunities."

In a short time now your baker will offer you new kinds of bread which he learned to make at the schools held by the big flour mills in Minneapolis. There's a bread that's mixed with chocolate malted milk so that it tastes pretty much like a fountain drink and there's a bread that's been mixed with orange juice so that you can eat it for breakfast and forget about the fruit. Other new breads have been successfully mixed with fresh bananas, pimento cheese, peanut butter, apricots, pineapple and prunes.—"Life"
